AristaCare Health Services Announces Newest Acquisition, AristaCare at Whiting

WHITING, NJ – AristaCare Health Services, headquartered in South Plainfield, NJ, announced as of June 2008, its acquisition of the 180-bed former Twin Bridges of Whiting nursing center in Whiting, NJ, now operating as AristaCare at Whiting. AristaCare plans on doing whatever it takes to ensure the highest levels of patient care possible, while bringing its newest facility to its highest potential. AristaCare at Whiting's main focus will be cardiac rehabilitation.

As a premier healthcare provider, AristaCare and its related nursing facilities (AristaCare at Alameda, AristaCare at Cedar Oaks, AristaCare at Meadow Springs Center, and AristaCare at Norwood Terrace) have been on the forefront in the provision of cutting-edge, innovative, and state-of-the-art healthcare. The combination of AristaCare's resources, in partnership with the dedication and caring of Whiting staff, will be the ultimate formula for a truly remarkable healthcare center.

At AristaCare at Whiting, there will be some changes implemented in the way of the physical environment and in the delivery of additional specialty healthcare services. On the physical end, the facility will be transformed, slowly but surely, into a shining example of 21st century healthcare. Not only will AristaCare at Whiting provide extraordinary levels of care, but will do so in an ideal healthcare environment—a place their patients and residents will be proud to call home. AristaCare at Whiting will also have a comprehensive, state of the art, cardiac subacute rehab program, and will soon become the premier provider for cardiac rehab.

As a relatively young regional provider of subacute, post acute, and long term care services, AristaCare has made a name for itself as a dynamic and innovative industry leader. Transforming traditional "nursing homes" into state-of-the-art inpatient facilities offering the latest in medical and rehabilitative technology is just part of what puts AristaCare in a league of its own. In addition to providing such medically complex services such as TPN, peritoneal dialysis, and cardiac telemetry monitored rehab, AristaCare's centers are designed as luxury hotels rather than sterile and institutional-looking nursing homes and hospitals. AristaCare centers are staffed with a full time concierge, and its decor includes custom wood furnishings, electric and specialty beds, flat screen LCD TV's with complimentary satellite television, complimentary local phone service, complimentary WiFi (wireless internet), and much, much more.

One of AristaCare's defining characteristics is its acute level, 7 day a week, intensive rehabilitation. The difference between AristaCare's rehab and its subacute competitors is clearly defined the moment you step into any of AristaCare's spacious rehab areas – full of hi-tech equipment usually seen only at specialty rehab hospitals. This state of the art equipment combined with hand picked specialty trained therapists is the winning formula for the impressive outcomes for which AristaCare is known.

AristaCare has also been internationally recognized as a pioneer in the delivery of cultural based healthcare. Recognizing that an individual's heritage, beliefs, and culture plays a vital role in their sense of well being, AristaCare continues to expand its cultural based specialty programs. These include the Mukund Thakar Indian Program, the L'Chaim Lifestyles Jewish Program, and the Dr. Jorge Gonzalez Hispanic Cultural Program.

Other related facilities include Norwood Terrace Nursing and Rehabilitation Center in northern Plainfield, AristaCare at Alameda Center in Perth Amboy, AristaCare at Cedar Oaks in South Plainfield, and AristaCare at Meadow Springs Center in Plymouth Meeting, PA.
